

Writing & Research Center Services Menu

---

With our new Online Services Menu

http://www.tc3.edu/library/s\_WRC\_Faculty\_Services.asp

you can choose the content you want help with and send your request for an appointment. Your session will be focused on the specific content you choose :

Orientation
Topic Development
Asking Meaningful Research Questions
Tools for Research
Evaluating Sources
Integrating Sources
How to Cite
The Tutor Connection
Grammar Matters
Style in Writing
Revision
How to Read a Book

Targeted Help

Our goal is always to help individual students take the next step in their learning, wherever they are today. Step 1 is making sure the instruction session addresses the skills and knowledge they need to complete the assignment you've designed for them. In some cases we are able to go even deeper by bringing extra staff into the session.

For Example: Say you want us to work with your class at the beginning of a research project to help

Want to Know More?

Barbara Kobritz x 4362
bek@tc3.edu

Jose Beduya x 4402
jpb@tc3.edu

focus their topics. If you let us know a few days in advance what topics students have chosen, we can divide the students into groups that

- are ready to start searching for sources;
- need help narrowing their topics;
- have chosen a topic that doesn't fulfill the assignment;
- haven't submitted a topic yet;

and then work with each group at an appropriate level.

Working Together

If you are not already working with the Writing & Research Center, we'd love to get to know you. Make an appointment with Barbara or Jose to show us what you are working on in your class. Seeing your assignments and understanding your goals always helps us help students. We may be able to offer valuable feedback based on how we see students approaching your assignments.

Writing & Research Center